National consumer and environmental groups will host a telephone news conference to comment on ExxonMobil's second quarter profits report and provide analysis on the company's role in the future of U.S. energy policy, global warming, and alternative energy. Decisions made today by ExxonMobil will affect our country and its energy security for decades to come. Exxpose Exxon is an unprecedented campaign against the world's largest private oil company by some of the nation's largest environmental and public advocacy organizations. Comments on the campaign's momentum in the close of its first year will also be provided, including the announcement of half a million people actively pressuring the company to change course.

WHAT: Consumer and environmental groups comment on ExxonMobil's second quarter profits announcement with expert analysis on Exxon's role in U.S. energy policy, global warming, and alternative energy.
